Worshippers

Temptation, self-deception, the confrontation of one's shadow self

Velthar holds up a mirror that shows you what you do not wish to see. His followers believe that a person's hidden desires and self-deceptions are the truest measure of their character -- and that forcing someone to face what they deny about themselves is the most transformative trial of all.

Conduct: Expose self-deception. Never lie about your own nature. Those who deceive themselves most thoroughly are Velthar's most dangerous instruments.
